Office Of Patient Centered Care & VCS Partner To Promote Whole Health With “WELLNESS WEDNESDAY”

Veterans and staff at the Fayetteville Health Care Center Feb. 13 got a chance to participate in “Wellness Wednesday.” During this event observed at VAs across the nation, Veterans Canteen Service partnered with The Office of Patient Centered Care - Whole Health for Life to promote healthy food and lifestyle merchandise options available at local VA Canteen and Retail Stores.

Marketing and informational materials, coupons, and items focusing on how VCS merchandise, food and services relates to the Whole health for Life Program were on display.

Can you believe we are already well into 2019! There is a lot happening in the Network as well as throughout VA. I’ll tell you a little about it here. But first, with so much going on, I’d like to share something we’re doing to help serve Veterans with distinction. I’ve asked staff to reflect on their “why.” What motivates them and why are they dedicated to our mission, Veterans and staff?

Many of you have heard my “why,” a story beginning in 1984, when I joined VA. My first introduction to the system was linking my WWI grandfather to healthcare. My WWII father, said to me then, “you need to work for the VA and help make it a better place.” 31 years later, I had the great honor of being the Director for the Durham VAHCS where my dad spent his final months under Hospice Care. My “why” has become stronger each and every day. I’d like to share a couple of VA initiatives we hope will help drive home the idea for staff how important the Veteran (patient) experience is to outcomes.

Recently, several of our staff attended VA’s national Patient Experience (PX) Symposium with VHA senior leadership, network and facility directors, and PX champions. “Patient experience” summarizes the interactions during a Veteran’s visit that can influence perceptions of VA healthcare. One of the most successful methods to improve patients’ experience is Own the Moment training, introducing principles that guide our experiences with Veterans and their families.

Not long ago, I traveled with some of my VISN leadership to the VA High Reliability Organization (HRO) Summit in Orlando, Florida. In health care, becoming the HRO means that your facility instills a culture of safety, continuous improvement, and leaderships commitment to safety and reliability.

Market Area Health Systems Optimization teams began visiting VISN 6 locations February 15. Also known as Market Assessments, the teams will analyze health care resources there, measuring Veteran needs against the resources available. The resulting assessment will help us roadmap our provision of foundational services to Veterans in each of these market areas and make plans to optimize services Veterans need.

We hope these and other environment of care transitions enrich Veterans’ experiences to help them live better.

Veteran Airlifted from Cozumel by the Durham VA Health Care System

Durham, N.C. — On Jan. 10, 2019, Army Veteran Jameson Ryan Parker was airlifted from Cozumel, Mexico, to the Durham VA Health Care System. Mr. Parker began having symptoms of pneumonia while on vacation with his girlfriend Megan, and her 4-year old daughter, Aaliyah. After receiving medical attention from the medical staff on his cruise, Mr. Parker was taken to one of the local hospitals in Cozumel.

“Basically, I was in pretty bad shape and I don’t remember many of these days, but my father contacted a congressman in North Carolina to get me back over here, along with the VA staff,” said Parker.

The first VA medical facility to be informed about the status of Mr. Parker’s health was the Miami VA Health Care System, who called a Durham VA Health Care System Administrator on Duty (AOD). It was at this point that the Patient Transfer Center reached out to Cathy Kruger, a licensed clinical social worker here at the Durham VA. The Patient Transfer Center has been developed to help coordinator movement of Veterans coming into the VA Health Care system and to also coordinate care for Veterans in the community, who may be receiving medical care from local hospitals.

Once she was notified, Ms. Kruger began

Ending Veteran Suicide

By Salisbury VA | DIRECTOR JOSEPH P. VAUGHN

Each day, 20 Veterans end their lives by suicide. Suicide means there is no chance for a do-over, and ends all hope of a better tomorrow. The aftermath for the family and friends left behind is almost unbearable.

Veteran suicide prevention is one of VA Secretary Wilkie’s top priorities, as well as my own. Salisbury VA is working to end suicide among Veterans, but we realize that we cannot do it alone. It takes a team of community partners to end Veteran suicide by working within communities, where Veterans live, work and thrive, to give them care and support before they reach a crisis point.

Recently I had the opportunity to speak on suicide prevention at a Veteran’s coffee, where Veterans come together to share a cup of coffee and swap stories. I firmly believe that we must reach out to Veterans and let them know that they are not alone, and that there are many VA services available to them. I challenged the group to enter the Veteran Crisis hotline number (1-800-273-8255, then press 1) in their cell phones and I challenge you as well because you never know when you may need it. Click here for TV coverage of the event

A local reporter shared the emotional pain that he still suffers every day more than 30 years after his father died by suicide. His father, who was a World War II Veteran, never sought treatment from the VA. Of the 20 Veterans who die each day by suicide, 16 have never received care from VA.

Salisbury VA is embracing a public health model of Suicide Prevention. To this end, we actively engage in multiple community outreaches/partnerships. Over the course of 2018, we attended 154 outreach/educational events. These have included Out of Darkness Walks, sporting events for Veterans, health fairs, job fairs, school events, hospital events, Veterans Day parades, Veterans coffees, gay pride events and various other outreach opportunities. The goal of attending these events is to provide education about suicide prevention, provide information about the Veterans’ Crisis Line (VCL) (1-800-273-8255 and press 1) and increase the conversation about Suicide Prevention, bringing it out of the darkness.

The VCL is a free, confidential resource that is available to anyone. After a Veteran calls the crisis line and any emergency or urgent needs are addressed, the calls are forwarded to the local VA. The Suicide Prevention Team then follows up to make sure that the Veteran’s needs are taken care of. This can include a variety of interventions, such as connection to mental health or primary care, information about registration, information about community resources and a variety of other needs. In FY 2018, the Salisbury VA received 1,517 VCL referrals, and the VCL dispatched 233 emergency responses to Veterans in our area.

Suicide prevention is everyone’s business. Please join VA in protecting the ones who protected us, our nation’s heroes. Be aware of the warning signs of suicide and do not be afraid to ask questions.

Veteran Airlifted from Cozumel...

Attempts to contact the next of kin to determine what their wishes were concerning the welfare of their son, Mr. Parker. The Durham VA Health Administration Services Chief, Peter Tillman, made many calls to national programs, but was not successful in securing an international flight for Mr. Parker. The Department of Veterans Affairs is not allowed to fly into international or foreign countries without permission.

“Because this is an outside hospital, we don’t have access to their records and this is out of the country,” Kruger said. “I had to rely on a verbal report from the nurse case manager in Miami.”

Due to a cruise benefit package, Mr. Parker was not required to take his passport on the cruise to Cozumel, which placed him in a foreign country, in its medical facility, with no proof of American citizenship except his birth certificate. Mr. Parker was identified by his VA medical records once the Miami VA was contacted.

“Through our Beneficiary Travel Program, which oversees VA-funded transportation for eligible Veterans, we came to find out that we were not able to provide coverage for non-U.S. territories, like Cozumel. So I had to look for a community agency that would be able to fund the cost of a medical air evacuation on our behalf,” said Kruger.

Kruger then reached out the Wounded Warrior Project, which was able to assist with a flight from Mexico to Miami, Fla. Once Mr. Parker was back in the United States, the Durham VA was able to cover the remainder of the cost.

Ms. Kruger worked well past midnight on the day of Mr. Parker’s arrival at the Durham VA, and even coordinated with the U.S. Embassy in Mexico to secure his arrival.

“Thank you very much for all your support,” Parker said. “It definitely means a lot. It was a crazy thing that happened, but the fact that your guys were there to support and help out, not only medically, but financially help out the situation and get me back home, thank you very much.”
For several months, the Hampton VA Medical Center staff has implemented and experienced vast organizational change. Two years ago, the facility found itself in need of revision. Since that time the Hampton team has worked arduously to make things happen. Many times, they found the challenges facing them daunting and overwhelming, but they soldiered through. With so much going on, as staff made changes to programs, policies, behavior and attitudes, across the board, it seemed oftentimes that nothing stayed the same.

To manage the fast-changing environment, Hampton leadership has begun to rally their staff around a new management protocol. Recognizing that change is tough and too much change can cause stress, pushing staff away from the path they want to follow, the team has adopted training in the Studer Group method.

According to their website, “Studer Group works with healthcare organizations in the United States, Canada, Australia, and beyond, to help them achieve and sustain exceptional improvement in clinical outcomes and financial results. A Huron (company) solution, Studer Group partners with organizations to build a sustainable culture that promotes accountability, fosters innovation, and consistently delivers a great patient experience and the best quality outcomes over time.”

Hampton hosted its first, very successful Studer Leadership Development Institute (LDI) on Jan. 25. Each LDI will enable Hampton VA leaders to gather and engage in a day of learning. Through these LDIs, leaders will enhance their current knowledge, skills and ability to achieve Hampton VA Medical Center’s goals.

Studer Groups’ overarching coaching process is based on the Evidence-based Leadership (EBL) model of execution and accountability. EBL lays the foundation for a culture of execution that helps organizations respond to new initiatives and change quickly. The EBL framework helps accelerate rates of improvement and efficiency in any measurable outcome. The EBL has three major components:

Aligned Goals: Organizations must implement an objective evaluation system that tells leaders not only what they’re supposed to be doing, but also what their priorities are.

Aligned Behavior: Standardizing leader behavior ensures predictable responses from their employees.

Aligned Processes: Consistency in process allows people to move more effectively, and opens the door to acceleration — the phase during which results start getting better and better.

Some of the LDIs support accountability, reduce leadership variance by providing the skills needed to improve, and help to sustain outcomes. They also help individuals to share responsibility and instill ownership.

The model relies heavily on open, transparent communication to prepare employees for what's coming, and to encourage them to begin thinking about ways they can deal with the changes. It assumes that people react better when they know the “why” — not that they’ll completely understand, but they will recognize at least a purpose.

As the Hampton team continues to move forward, with this tool they hope the changes become easier because they will better understand what they’re doing and why, then because they’ll begin to see and enjoy the results.
WAshington — The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) announced that Veterans interested in registering for the 2019 National Veterans Wheelchair Games can do so online Jan. 7 through April 15.

Presented by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) and Paralyzed Veterans of America (PVA), the world's largest sports event for Veterans who use wheelchairs will be held July 11-16 at Robley Rex VA Medical Center in Louisville, Ky.

The event is a sports and rehabilitation competition to engage Veterans who use wheelchairs due to spinal cord injuries, amputations or other neurological conditions.

“I encourage every Veteran interested in competing at the National Veterans Wheelchair Games to register for this important event,” said VA Secretary Robert Wilkie. “The games exemplify VAs commitment to supporting Veterans as they navigate through recovery and rehabilitation to active, independent lives. Sports and recreation play an important role in this journey, enhancing Veterans' positive mental health and physical wellbeing.”

Each year, Veterans challenge themselves and cheer on their fellow Veterans in the excitement-packed games. This year, David Zurfluh, national president of PVA and a service-disabled Air Force Veteran, plans to compete alongside hundreds of other Veterans at the games.

The National Veterans Wheelchair Games offer 19 different competitive events, including air guns, archery, basketball, bowling, field events, hand cycling, nine-ball, power soccer, quad rugby, slalom, softball, swimming, table tennis, track, trapshooting and weightlifting. Athletes compete against others with similar athletic ability, competitive experience or age.

For more information about the games, visit www.wheelchairgames.org. Follow VA Adaptive Sports on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram at @Sports4Vets.

SAlem VA’s Hospice and Palliative Care Service Teams Up With Local Veterans to Dedicate Memorial

By Laura Hart | PA-C, geriatrics, hospice and palliative care

On Sunday, Nov. 18, 2018, members of Salem VA Medical Center’s Hospice and Palliative Care Team, along with the medical center’s Executive Leadership Team, Ms. Stackhouse, Dr. Hutchins, Dr. Chappell, Mr. Moyer, Pam McAnally, and many other employees, volunteers, and family members of our fallen Veterans, dedicated the newest memorial on the grounds at Salem VA Medical Center: The Service Insignia Memorial.

Located between Buildings 1 and 2, this beautiful memorial was designed by Jeff Webster and was completed in October 2018 by Jeff and his team of dedicated co-workers — William Buchanan, Mike Arnold and Dennis Leary. These gentlemen are all Veterans themselves, having served in the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps. This made the completion of this memorial especially meaningful for them. The five service emblems were donated by Carlos and Patty Hart — both Air Force Veterans — and by active participants in Salem VA Medical Center’s Gerofit program.

The memorial is the newest in a growing memorial area that is utilized twice a year to hold memorial services for families and friends of all Veterans who have passed away at the Salem VA Medical Center in the six months prior to the memorial service. The services are held twice a year, around Memorial Day and Veterans Day. The area is also open year-round for Veterans, families and friends to visit.

In the near future, the Hospice and Palliative Care team plans to include a brick paved walkway from the sidewalk to the memorial area.

Charles George VA Medical Center Collects National Awards

Charles George VA Medical Center was recently awarded two prestigious national awards. The Organizational Health Award 2018 All Employee Survey highlights the medical center’s excellence in employee satisfaction, and the VA Excellence in Patient Experience — Overall Best Experience Award, highlighting the medical center’s excellent customer service.

Bestowed by VA Secretary Robert Wilkie, the Organizational Health Award shows that Charles George VA employees rated the facility the best VA in the nation for which one could work.

The medical center and its Community Based Outpatient Clinics were among the highest-scoring sites on the 2018 VA All Employee Survey (AES). Of the 66 AES items, the medical center had 62 scores that were significantly higher compared to peer institutions. (And tied for the most among VHA facilities.)

The Overall Best Experience Award, given during the national VA Patient Experience Symposium in Arlington, Va., highlighted the medical center’s efforts to provide quality, Veteran-centered health care and services.

The facility is one of 12 finalists across the nation, evaluated in Patient Experience, Employee Experience, and a 1,000-word essay on specific aspects of the Patient Experience at their facility. “We cannot overestimate the importance of our Veterans’ and their family members’ customer experience in our health care facilities,” said Dr. Richard Stone, VHA Executive in Charge.

The Overall Best Experience award reflects employees’ commitment to Owning the Moment and providing outstanding customer service for all Veterans, family members, caregivers, and fellow employees.
VA Wait Times for New Appointments Equal to or Better Than Those in Private Sector

JAMA study compared four VA specialty care services with private care

WASHINGTON — A study recently published in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) shows that VA significantly reduced wait times for Veteran patients in primary care and three specialty care services between 2014 and 2017.

The study, titled “Comparison of Wait Times for New Patients Between the Private Sector and United States Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Centers,” compared wait times between VA and private-sector clinicians in 15 major metropolitan areas for appointments in primary care, dermatology, cardiology and orthopedics.

For all specialties except orthopedics, VA wait times were similar to private-sector wait times in 2014, and were shorter in 2017.

“Since 2014, VA has made a concerted, transparent effort to improve access to care,” said VA Secretary Robert Wilkie. “This study affirms that VA has made notable progress in improving access in primary care, and other key specialty care areas.

“This progress represents another reason Veterans Choose VA for their health care, following on a recent Dartmouth study that found VA medical centers ‘outperform private hospitals in most health care markets throughout the country,’ and the Partnership for Public Service ranking VA as one of the Top 6 Best Places to Work in the federal government.”

According to the JAMA study, average wait time in 2014 for a VA appointment in one of these specialties was 22.5 days, compared with 18.7 days for private-sector physicians. In 2017, the average VA wait time was 17.7 days, while the private-sector average was 29.8 days. That translates to a shorter average wait time of 12 days in VA, compared with the private sector.

Primary care, dermatology and cardiology wait times were all shorter than in the private sector in 2017. While orthopedic wait times were longer for VA in both 2014 and 2017, they did decrease during the study period.

According to the study, the number of patients seen yearly in VA increased slightly between 2014 and 2017, to around 5.1 million. VA patient satisfaction has also risen, according to patient surveys cited in the study.

A Successful First Year in the Immediate Care Clinic

By Lisa Amick | HAMPTON VAMC ICC

Feb. 20, 2019, marked the one-year anniversary of the Immediate Care Clinic (ICC) at the Hampton VAMC. The ICC was established because of rapid and unplanned growth, coupled with provider- and support-service staffing shortages. As a result, same-day access within the clinics was not always feasible. Additionally, the Emergency Department (ED) was often overburdened with primary care patients. The negative impact of the situation could be felt in primary care and in the ED, through longer ED wait times, increased numbers of patients leaving without being seen, and increased risks and costs to the facility.

Although most thought the introduction of the ICC, as a solution, was unorthodox, the ICC has proved a valuable resource for Veterans, primary care teams and the ED. It serves as a bridge between the ED and primary care for Veterans that were unassigned, ensuring that those with the desire to be assigned to a PACT had an appointment scheduled before leaving the ICC. The ICC has assisted traveling and transferring Veterans in need of immediate care, ensuring that they received the care they needed. The ICC has been a Veteran satisfier, with Veterans commenting that this clinic is “quick and efficient care” and the “staff are amazing and caring.”

The goals of the ICC were to decompress an already crowded ED, decrease ED wait times and costs, as well as to recapture these Veterans back into primary care. After just one year, we have accomplished those goals.

The ICC by the numbers are:

- 223 Veterans connected to primary care
- 6,625 Veterans seen in the ICC
- $9,241,875 dollars SAVED by seeing the Veterans in the ICC vice the ED

Hampton VAMC’s ICC has proven to be a huge success for our Veterans. Congratulations ICC on a job well done!
Richmond Holds First Vow Renewal Ceremony

By Keith Gottschalk | VAMC PUBLIC AFFAIRS

St. Valentine himself may have been smiling down upon those gathered in the McGuire VA Medical Center chapel to see four Veteran couples renew their wedding vows, just before.

The chapel was decorated with rose petals, and lit candles lined the main aisle, the pathway for a procession of brides and bridegrooms, ready to pronounce their undying love for one another.

As the ceremonies concluded, there was hardly a dry eye in the house.

The four couples who renewed their vows were: Thomas (Tommy) and Carol Briggs, Pompay and Clementine Bailey, Matthew and April Gill, and Al and Sherry Branch. The vow renewal ceremony was part of the National Salute to Veteran Patients Week at McGuire, and it was a joint effort by both Voluntary Service and Chaplain's office.

Voluntary Service Chief Kristy Coie-Day brought the idea of a vow renewal day with her from a former position at another VA. “This is part of recognizing the sacrifices of Veterans and their spouses,” said Coie-Day. “We bring them back together to show our support through their union.”

For the Briggs family, their renewal may have evoked a sense of déjà vu; they were married in the same chapel in 2006 after being introduced at American Legion Post 137 in south Richmond. They currently volunteer at McGuire and have a combined total of more than 17,455 volunteer hours.

For Carol, who is now 70, it was her first marriage (at 58), but she said even though she had to wait, “God gave me the perfect husband.” Tommy replied, “Well, I’d marry her again tomorrow.”

“Isn’t he sweet?” asked Carol, the couple seemed as giddy as teenagers.

A particularly dramatic moment came after the Gill family exchanged their vows in front of Chaplain James Johnson. Matthew broke into a sonorous love song for his bride: an acapella verse from K-Ce & Jojo’s hit song “All My Life.” Chief of Chaplains Dewane Stone said that moment typified the sincerity of the entire ceremony.

“When he sang that song — you can’t script that,” Stone said. “That comes right from the heart.” Stone said he felt the ceremony was one of joy and one of hope — that true love thrives.

SALISBURY, N.C. — On Feb. 9, the chilly weather outside didn’t stop poets, singers, musicians and artists from showcasing their art forms at the Salisbury VA’s local competition of the National Creative Arts Festival.

This year, Salisbury VA had nine creative writing entries, eight vocal performance entries, two instrumental performance entries, and 26 fine art entries.

“The Creative Arts Festival was an amazing show of talent from the Veterans who use the Salisbury VA,” Salisbury VA Medical Center Director Joseph Vaughn said. “I was incredibly impressed with the musical and creative talent of all the Veterans who participated. To share some of the written and visual art, we are working with our partner in the competition, the American Legion Auxiliary, to put together a booklet that can be shared and placed in our waiting areas for everyone to enjoy.”

The annual competition is open to Veterans enrolled in VA health care and includes more than 50 categories in the visual arts division ranging from oil painting to leatherwork. In addition, there are 100 categories in the performing arts pertaining to all aspects of music, dance, drama and creative writing.

Veterans who are interested in submitting fine art or performing for next year’s NCAF competition can contact the Salisbury VA Recreation Therapy department at (704) 638-9000 extension 13575 or extension 13065. Entries are accepted beginning in December or January, and are announced on Salisbury VA’s Facebook page and participating partners’.

The National Creative Arts Festival is sponsored jointly by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the American Legion Auxiliary.

VCS, OPCC Partner To Promote Whole Health With “Wellness Wednesday”

Other activities included a yoga demonstration by a Kiona Zappe, an active duty soldier from Fort Bragg who was on hand to represent the VETOGA organization. VETO-GA is a non-profit based in Washington, D.C., whose mission is to provide yoga, meditation and healing arts to military, veterans, their families, and communities. VETO-GA holds free monthly yoga classes, events and veteran specific teacher trainings throughout the year at locations across the country.

Blue Cross Blue Shield Federal Employee Program representatives also took part in the inaugural event, sharing information about their health coaching for non-VET employees and other health improvement opportunities.

Last year, VA began expanding peer community outreach and group sessions in the VA Whole Health initiative from 18 Whole Health Flagship facilities to all facilities. Whole Health recognizes the patient as a whole person and helps support a patient’s unique needs. Whole Health goes beyond an individual’s illnesses, injuries, or disabilities, focusing on values and aspirations, recognizing that health and wellbeing includes self-care and complementary therapies such as acupuncture, massage and yoga, along with conventional medical care.

STRIVE Eastern Conference Slated for April 24

By Jeff Melvin | FAYETTEVILLE VA COASTAL HCS

Veteran students have found themselves in better places recently, thanks to the Student Transition Resource Initiative for Veteran’s Education (STRIVE). The organization, sponsored in part by VA and NC Governor’s Working Group, will hold its Eastern Regional Conference at Craven Community College in New Bern April 24.

The organization provides assistance, tools and resources to facilitate Veterans’ smooth transition from the military to higher education, and from higher education to the workplace. The group works for Veterans’ successful integration into community colleges and four-year public and private colleges and universities through seamless access to state and community behavioral health services, supports and resources, VA healthcare services and Veteran’s benefits, Vet Centers, and on-campus support and resources.

Formed in 2014, the organization and its conference have grown every year. Members of the planning committee brought together a broad coalition to design the statewide conferences, including the NC Division of Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities, and Substance Abuse Services (DMHDDSAS); the Governor’s Institute; the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA); community colleges; the UNC System; the NC Independent Colleges and Universities; the NC Department of Public Instruction; the NC Department of Military and Veterans Affairs; the NC National Guard; and advocacy organizations.

In fact, STRIVE used to hold a single conference each year, but to afford more advocates and vendors opportunities to network where it counts for them, they created regional conferences for greater access.

Each regional conference was designed and implemented by a regional planning committee responsible for planning the conference, securing a location, and raising funds to support the lunch and breaks. They also planned the agenda, addressing themes like behavioral health, military culture and other topics specific to their region.

Susan Watkins, OEF, OIF, OND Program Manager at Durham VA Health Care System says, “As many of you know, Greenville and Morehead support a large number of Veterans.”

“It is a great opportunity for us to be hosting the 2019 NC Strive Eastern Conference,” said Michael Mitchell Martin, Craven Community College Military Affairs Resource Coordinator.

STRIVE partners are committed to our Veteran population, and this initiative is completely community-based and locally funded through donations and in-kind gifts. Other STRIVE Conferences are taking place at Blue Ridge Community College (April 9), Central Piedmont Community College (April 23), and NC State University (June 6).
Getting With the “Flow”

By Joshua D. Edson

When it comes to patient care, time is of the essence. One of the biggest challenges most health care facilities face is, quite simply, time. When a patient arrives with a particular problem or concern, how does a facility move them through a myriad of services in a timely manner without jeopardizing their quality of care?

In June 2018, Durham VA Healthcare System was accepted as one of 36 VHA facilities to participate in the Patient Flow Coordination Collaborative (PFCC) for six months in the 2018 fiscal year.

The PFCC focuses on improving inpatient and Emergency Department (ED) patient flow. “Our goal for June 2019 is to reduce both adjusted length of stay and decrease the bed turnaround time by at least an hour,” says Tina Retallick, a Registered Nurse and Quality Consultant for the DVAHCS Emergency Department. “We’re also focusing on other areas as well, like care coordination, modernization and improving the timeliness of service.”

The Patient Flow Center (PFC) places a heavy emphasis on care in the community and maintaining relationships with other health care facilities outside of the VA system. The Patient Flow Center is the hub of all transfers in and out of the facility. Veterans who receive care with facilities outside of the area are encouraged to continue care with the facilities most convenient to them. If a Veteran requires services through the DVAHCS, the Patient Flow Center facilitates the transfer of the Veteran and assures continuity of care.

The addition of Social Work services in the Flow Center has significantly impacted our ability to assist the outside facility or Veteran without physically traveling to our facility. Streamlining the care process not only helps the Veteran, it also benefits the DVAHCS. It frees up additional funding that can go to expanding services to Veterans in need and avoiding unnecessary admissions. Ultimately, this frees up beds for Veterans in greater need.

“This process makes us more Veteran centric,” says Tammy Linton, a Registered Nurse Utilization Management Coordinator for the DVAHCS Patient Flow Center. “Our ultimate goal is to treat the whole Veteran, from the time they walk through the door, to the time they leave us, healthy and happier from their experience.”

Richmond Unveils New Patriot Brew Café

By Keith Gottschalk | RICHMOND VAMC PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Is it possible to get excited over coffee? Well, ask the dozens of McGuire VA Medical Center Veterans and staff patiently waiting outside the new Patriot Brew, Feb. 15, for the 9:00am grand opening. The smell of the Starbucks coffee was already wafting through the lobby.

“As a dedicated coffee drinker, I was meant to be here,” said Unique McKibben, who works in Education. “When I started here at the VA, I worked in the Starbucks.”

“This has been so highly anticipated, and I’m so excited for the staff here,” McKibben went on to say. “They have a good team, and they have a good space.”

At 9:00am the ribbon was cut and the crowd poured in for complimentary coffee. It had been a moment Veterans and staff had waited a long time for, and smiles were well in evidence.

Just before the ribbon fell, a beaming Donald French thanked everyone responsible for making the new shop happen. French is the chief of the Veterans Canteen Service (VCS) at McGuire. VCS is responsible for the café’s operation.

“And now we’re looking forward to stepping up everything and having more in store for you,” French said.

Not only is the Patriot Brew, now adjacent to the retail store, big, shiny and new, but it also offers more in the way of food, seating and hours of operation, according to VCS Regional Supervisor Liz Johnson.

“We’ve been space-confined here for quite a while, and so the expansion allows us to offer more in the way of hot and cold food and beverages all day long,” Johnson said.

In addition to the Starbucks-brand coffee and cold brew beverages, fresh pastries, healthy grab-n-go salads, sandwiches, parfaits and bottled beverages are also part of the food lineup. Johnson said adding another espresso machine will help speed up service and convenience as well.

The hours of the shop will grow to meet the needs of Veterans and their families, Johnson said. Prior to the new store opening, the old store closed at 4:00pm Monday through Friday. Now, the new café will be open until 7:00pm and on Saturday from 7:00am to 4:00pm and Sunday from 9:00am to 2:00pm.

“A lot of Veterans and their families are here past 4:30, and because of that, we’ve had the retail shop open until 8:00pm,” Johnson said.

As an upgrade to their prior space, the new coffee shop also has a larger dining space that holds six to 10 tables (with charging ports for phones and laptops) that are all wheelchair-accessible. In addition, there is comfy bar-style seating around the perimeter of the store.

VCS operates 173 Patriot Brew coffee shops nationally in VA medical centers and outpatient clinics. Established in 1946, the VCS provides merchandise and services to Veterans, their families and caretakers. Revenues generated from VCS are used to support a variety of programs for Veterans around the nation.

Richmond VA Medical Center unveils its latest addition, a new Patriot Brew café, which will serve an expanded menu of hot and cold drinks and food options. The grand opening took place Feb. 15 amidst a crowd of employees and Veterans.
